American Fisherman Blamed by Canadians.

In a report to the Ottawa government Capt. Newcomb of the fishery protection cruiser Kestral asks that a modern cruiser, like the Canada on the Atlantic coast, with a speed of 20 or 22 knots, and two smaller boats of 18 knots speed, be commissioned as soon as possible to protect the British Columbian fisheries.

He gives as a reason that the halibut grounds of British Columbia are being depleted by American fishing vessels, which, he says, took nearly 40,000,000 pounds of halibut last year from provincial waters. He also claims that the American fishermen clean their catches in British Columbia harbors and asks that fast motor launches be supplied the officers to prevent the practice.

EARNINGS OF FISHERMEN IN NOVA SCOTIA AND GLOUCESTER.

In an editorial in its recent issue, the Clark's Harbor, N. S., Coast Guard gives the following interesting account of the average yearly earnings of the Canadian fishermen by Provinces:

Nova Scotia, 25,000 fishermen, average yearly earnings, $310.

New Brunswick, 14,000 fishermen, average yearly earnings, $350.

Prince Edward Island, 4000 fishermen, average yearly earnings, $292.

Quebec, 12,000 fishermen, average yearly earnings, $181.

Ontario, 3000 fishermen, average yearly earnings, $578.

British Columbia, 15,000 fishermen, average yearly earnings, $466.

In speaking of these figures, which the Coast Guard says are taken from the "blue book," an official government publication, the paper remarks that "if the figures are reliable they show a striking difference, according to locality and that they vary so widely that one is almost tempted to question the correctness of the returns."

In closing the Coast Guard says that "assuming that the original statements are correct, we can only wonder how Ontario fishermen manage to roll up so large an average stock."

We have been so accustomed to read in many Canadian journals and in many Canadian speeches how much better the Nova Scotia fishermen would be off, and how much more money they could make if they would stay home and go fishing instead of coming to Gloucester to go in the vessels here, that we must say we are somewhat surprised at the showing of this province, according to the official figures, which must be taken as standard. It is certainly very much below the average here where shares for the year will run as high as $1200 to a man in some crafts, while of course they will be much lower in others.

The average will certainly be much higher than that of Nova Scotia, and in many lines of the fishery $310 would be considered a fair season's work, for six months, to say nothing of what it would be for a year. We are still inclined to our belief, held for many years, that when it comes to going fishing, Gloucester is the place for a man who wants to make big money, and we see nothing in the above statistics to cause us to think of changing that opinion.

MADE A FINE PASSAGE.

Sch. Clintonia Here This Morning with Frozen Herring.

Capt. James Vanamberg is entitled to wear the medal as the hustler from Newfoundland. Generally he has been in sch. Henry M. Stanley, and in that remarkable craft has made passages which has made the eyes of the old timers stick out with wonder. This trip he went in sch. Clintonia, one of the finest ever built, and when he started for home last Thursday forenoon, he meant to come flying, and he did, for last evening at 7 o'clock he tied his craft up at the wharf of Orlando Merchant, in this harbor.

When the Clintonia started, about 30 others hoisted their mainsails together and all started off at the same time. The long legged craft began to dig right in from the start and that Capt. "Jimmie" lost no time is shown by the fact that he was here last night and as yet nothing has put in appearance.
